AVAA Chief Executive Officers' Roundtable

The Auctioneers and Valuers Association of Australia (AVAA) is pleased to provide a forum for senior executives from across the auction and valuation sectors to exchange insight, experience, and forward-looking perspectives shaping the auction and valuation sector. The vehicle for these collaborative discussions is the AVAA Chief Executive Officers' Roundtable is a highly focused forum bringing together senior executives from AVAA Corporate Members, the AVAA National President and the AVAA Chief Executive.

The AVAA Chief Executive Officers' Roundtable serves as a trusted environment where leaders can exchange insight, experience, and forward-looking perspectives shaping the auction and valuation sectors.

Held quarterly via videoconference, with additional discussions convened over breakfast or lunch meetings when appropriate, the AVAA Chief Executive Officers' Roundtable ensures regular, meaningful engagement at the highest level. This cadence enables participants to track emerging trends, regulatory developments, and operational challenges with clarity and consistency.

At each meeting, participants receive a detailed update on issues of significance across the auctioneer and valuation profession. These include economic conditions, regulatory changes, market shifts, workforce pressures, and the strategic priorities being progressed by AVAA on behalf of the membership.

Equally important, the AVAA Chief Executive Officers' Roundtable provides an avenue for senior executives to raise the issues most affecting their own firms. These contributions directly inform AVAA's work program, ensuring that policy advocacy, professional standards initiatives, and member services remain responsive to the realities faced by Corporate Members.

The AVAA Chief Executive Officers' Roundtable strength lies in its candour and collaboration. As an exclusive gathering of industry leaders, it fosters open conversation and thoughtful analysis while maintaining the confidentiality and mutual respect expected at an executive level. Participants value the opportunity to speak frankly about sector-wide challenges and opportunities.

This forum is recognised as one of the significant benefits of AVAA Corporate Membership. While never positioned as a sales tool, the AVAA Chief Executive Officers' Roundtable reflects the Association's commitment to meaningful engagement with the leaders shaping Australia's auction and valuation landscape. It stands as a space where experienced voices help guide the future direction of AVAA and the sector more broadly.
